Nova Hotel Renovation & Construction Completes Restoration of 18th Century English Manor
The Restoration of the Saint Hill Manor employs the finest local craftsman and unearths historic treasures

CLEARWATER, FL (February 14, 2012) - Nova HRC has completed the historic restoration of Saint Hill Manor, an 18th Century English sandstone manor located in East Grinstead, UK. Utilizing locally sourced materials, used in the original construction of the facility, and employing the finest English craftsman trained in the traditional arts of wood-working, hand-formed plaster cornice, slate roofing, and metallurgy, Nova HRC was able to restore this manor to its original grandeur.

In the process of demolition, Nova HRC uncovered many artifacts from the previous occupants which had been hidden in the walls and floors of the buildings, including 19th century newspapers, a cigarette box, and a hidden safe. The project included the full restoration and MEP backbone upgrade to the original four-story manor, six out-buildings, and the construction of a museum-quality garage, and a new commercial kitchen, all of which were completed in an expedited 60-day work schedule.

The completion of Saint Hill Manor adds to Nova HRC's impressive resume of restoration work, which now includes the 1926 Fort Harrison Hotel, the 1930 Ramona Hotel, a 19th Century Cigar factory in Ybor City, and a 19th century schoolhouse in Nashville.
